Meissonier's cabinet picture of Naprincipal competitors whose bids soon caused all others to drop out were Mr. Wallis, the original purchaser, who for many years has managed the exhibitions of the French Gallery in Pall Mall, and Mr. Arnold, of the Paris firm of Arnold & Tripp, who crossed the channel determined to secure the treasure. After a few moments of keen rivalry the picture was his gray overcoat, white buckskin breeches and white waistcoat, wearing his star and orders, mounted on him, but at some little distance are two mounted officers of his, staff, as if waiting to hear some order from him. The likeness is excellent, and the figure altogether, closely resembles, if it is not identical with, that of the Emperor in a much larger picture by Meissonier representing the retreat from Moscow, which is in the collec which he gave the large sum of 10,000 guineas. The exact size of the picture is 12) inches in height by 91 inches wide, on panel.

National Board of Health. Special to Cincinnati Commercial.

WASHINGTON, June 20 .- The esti mate of the amount needed to main tain the National Board of Health in all its ramifications next year, which were submitted to Congress in December, footed up to $301,000. They are said to embrace no items not necessary in order to the successful prosecution of the National Board's work next year. The Board has many enemies, however. It has been regarded from the first as an interloper by the State Boards of Health, municipal health officers and by private physicians. They have often combined against it; sometimes they have effected their purpose. They have now succeeded in pursuading the sub-committee of the House Appropriations Committee to recommend to the full committee the appropriation of but $10,000, or just about enough to pay the salaries of the Board next year. When the many Southern members, who have taken an almost personal interest in the National Board of Health from its birth, heard of the action of the sub committee to day, they concentrated their efforts on the rest of the Apprepriation Committee. He will sternly across the battlefield. Near take three companions with him and take three companions with him, and has made all necessary preparations for a three years' cruise. He will establish a base of supplies at the point where the Tananah empties into the Yukon, and thence make prospecting tours by land and water in every direction. The chief purpose of this expedition is to discover mineral treasures, but it can scarcely fail to be otherwise important if the generous plans upon which it is projected are carried out. Mr. Schieffelin believes that Alaska is upon "the mineral belt which encircles the world, and the proof is strong enough to take the chances.
